Here's the Pull Request Doc

<https://devtools-html.github.io/debugger.html/CONTRIBUTING.html#pull-requests>

Summary of Changes

- change 1
Added align-items: center; to .search-bar class in SearchBar.css file.
- change 2
Removed margin-top: 12px; and added align-self: center; to .search-field .close-btn

Test Plan

Issue only showed up when opening the search files Modal and search text in file search bar. For testing we only needed to open the search fields and see that the "X" button was vertically centered and it IS.

Example test plan:

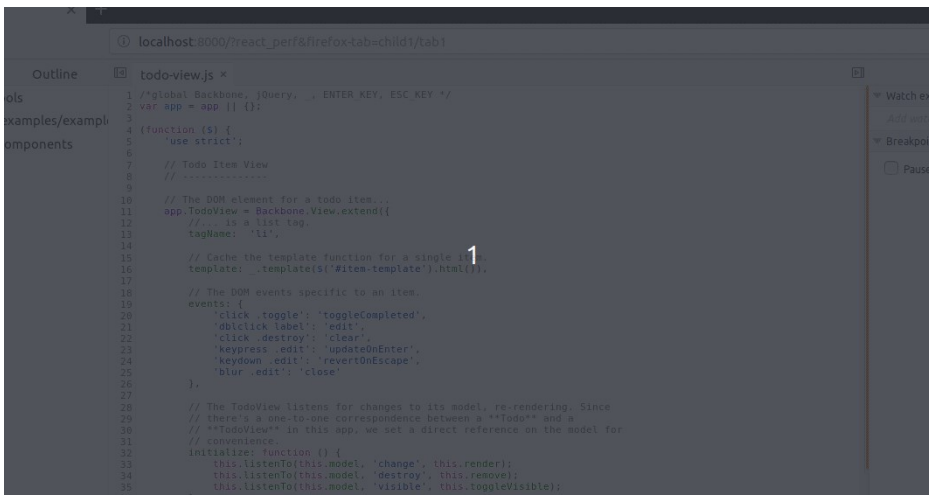

- ☒ Command-P opens the panel
- ☒ Clicking "+" opens the panel
- ☒ Clicking a source navigates to the source
- ☒ Clicking "x" closes the panel

Feel free to improve it!

Thanks! I think the goal is to file search to look the way it looks in firefox now... so no visual changes there @JasonLaster - I remove the line of code that was causing the search bar to shrink like that. Now it's back to normal and the X button still works. Here's a GIF of the new fix.

  added specific margin-top to search files and search text
